LINKS FAITH WITH FACTS

BACCALAUREATE SERMON URGES BOTH SCIENCE AND RELIGION.

EXTREMES DANGEROUS

Speaker to College Graduating Class Deplores Holy Roller as Well as the Materialist.

Out of a torrent of oratory from the lips of the Rev. Marion Nelson Waldrip, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of Kansas City, graduates of the State Teachers College received yesterday the admonition to subdue the earth by faith and to conquer the world by faith.

Dr. Waldrip was the speaker at the baccalaureate services for the 1927 class of the College in the auditorium of the administration building yesterday morning.

"Science and religion" was the subject of the sermon, delivered to a congregation which packed the large auditorium several minutes before the appointed hour for the opening of the service.

"Subdue the earth by fact; fact is science," Dr. Waldrip said. "Overcome the world by faith; faith is religion," he continued.

"Science without religion is materialism; religion without science is fanaticism. The former is represented by the higher critic; the latter by the Holy Roller. I'd rather be the higher critic, because then there would be some hope that faith could be pounded into my head."

Unafraid of Evolution.

Dr. Waldrip's sermon called for frequent allusions to evolution, and he did not steer shy of the subject which has aroused such a controversy.

"I wish they would prove the theory of evolution, but when they do, they'll find that Moses beat them to it by millions of years, for the Mosaic tablets are the world's greatest exposition of the theory of evolution.

"Scientists say it took God thousands of years to make a man out of a monkey. A woman can reverse the procedure in fifteen minutes.

"Everything in this world is progression. I wish they'd called evolution progression. Then there wouldn't have been such an argumet about it.

"I'd rather be the biggest devil in hell with a mind of my own than a rag doll in the kingdom of heaven."

Dr. Waldrip gave many instances of the manner in which man is subduing the earth. He told of the automobile, the airplane, the radio, the electric current, and the progress of preventive and corrective medicine.

"We are subduing the earth to such an extent that we will some day abolish death. We have found a cure for typhus, leprosy, bubonic plague—everything except cancer. And we're going to find a cure for that.

To Abolish Death, Banish Sin.

"We'll abolish death when we have done away with sin. That will not come for millions of years, for it will take eons to take away the hereditary strains of sin from the human race.

"But faith will do it. Faith, faith, faith. Overcome the world by faith."

The College chorus made its final appearance of the school year in connection with the baccalaureate service yesterday. It lead in the singing of the opening hymn, and sang two numbers, one before and one after the sermon. The music by the chorus was excellent—a fitting accompaniment for the baccalaureate sermon.

The invocation and scripture reading were by the Rev. R. A. Mitchell, pastor of the local M. E. Church, South and the Rev. W. N. Dewar, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, gave the prayer.

The members of the graduating class wore the academic dress.

Miss Miller To Be Graduated.

Miss Eula Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Miller of Maryville, is a member of the graduating class of Missouri Wesleyan College at Cameron. Mr. and Mrs. Miller and daughter, Virginia, went to Cameron Saturday to attend the baccalaureate service on the College campus yesterday afternoon. Dr. C. C. James, formerly pastor of the First M. E. Church in Maryville, was the speaker. Mr. Miller returned home last night and will join Mrs. Miller and daughters in Cameron Wednesday for the commencement exercises, to be held Wednesday morning.

Exercises To Be Held At 10 A. M. For Graduates And Students Who Get Certificates.

Commencement week at the State Teachers College will reach its climax at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when degrees will be conferred on sixty-two students who have completed their four years of college work. Sam A. Baker, governor of Missouri, will deliver the commencement address. The subject will be "The Real Object Of Life—Service."

The academic procession will be from the College Residence Hall to the auditorium of the administration building. Seniors, faculty members and those on the program will march in the procession. For the first time in the history of the school, faculty members of the College will wear academic dress.

The commencement program will open with the processional, "Marche Militaire." This will be followed by the invocation, which will be spoken by the Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Maryville.

Bernhardt Bronson, teacher of voice at the College Conservatory of Music, will sing the aria, "Prologue from Pagliacci," by Leon Cavello.

Following the commencement address, there will be the announcement of awards for the year by Uel W. Lamkin, president of the College. Henry A. Foster, chairman of the faculty council of the College, then will present the candidates for certificates and degrees, which will be conferred by the president of the school.

"Alma Mater," the College song, will be sung, and the audience will remain standing while the graduates march from the auditorium.

Commencement week opened Saturday night, when the seniors presented in a creditable manner the play "smilin' Through." A packed auditorium greeted the members of the cast, and an appreciative audience left the auditorium after the play was completed. All members of the cast carried their parts well, and much credit is due Miss Blanche H. Dow, the director.

"Smilin' Through" was pronounced by many as the best senior play ever given at the College.

The annual alumni banquet will be held at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the College Residence Hall. Plans for an elaborate program have been made.

ASHBROOK IS FREE ON BOND

SLAYER OF DEWEY LEONARD APPEALS TO SUPREME COURT.

GENTRY MEN SURETIES

James Jennings and Horace B. Ramey, Farmers, Responsible to Extent of $10,000.

Thomas Ashbrook of Burlington Junction, who was convicted of the murder of Dewey Leonard today was at liberty again, for the first time since March 2, on a $10,000 appeal bond.

An appeal to the Supreme Court of the State of Missouri was granted late Saturday afternoon by Judge John M. Dawson of the circuit court. He passed on the appeal after he had formally sentenced Ashbrook to forty years in the penitentiary and denied him a motion for a new trial, which was argued by L. C. Cook of the firm of Cook & Cummins, who defended him in his trial. The forty years sentence was assessed by a jury in circuit court April 30.

Senator M. E. Ford, who, with W. A. Blagg, assisted Prosecuting Attorney G. P. Wright in the trial, answered for the State when the motion was argued.

James Jennings and Horace B. Rainey, both farmers living in Gentry County, near Alanthus, signed Ashbrook's bond as sureties.

They were placed on the stand and testified to their holdings. Ramey owns 95 acres of land near Alanthus, besides some town property in Stanberry, St. Joseph and Alanthus. Jennings said he owned 160 acres of land in Gentry county.

The appeal bond reads that Ashbrook shall appear before the Supreme Court during its October, 1927, term, to receive judgment on the appeal, or as the court may order.

Ashbrook has been confined in the county jail since the night of March 2. He was brought here from Burlington Junction that night after he had killed Leonard in Leonard's home about 5:15 o'clock that afternoon. This was on Wednesday.

The next evening a coroner's jury found that Leonard came to his death at the hands of Ashbrook and recommended that Ashbrook be held on a first degree murder charge, which was filed that day by the prosecuting attorney.

Ashbrook's preliminary hearing started March 17, and the next day Judge J. H. Sayler, justice of the peace, committed Ashbrook to the custody of the sheriff without bail, after deciding he should be held for first degree murder.

On April 25 the drawing of a jury to try Ashbrook started and examination of witnesses began the next day, continuing until noon April 29. Arguments were finished that night and the case went to the jury at 9 o'clock the following morning. The jury brought in a verdict at 2:11 p. m. Ashbrook contended that he shot in self defense.

GRADE PUPILS GET DIPLOMAS

POLK TOWNSHIP COMMENCEMENT THIS AFTERNOON.

SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN

Miss Grace M. Shepherd Talks To Students; Exercises Held At Maryville High School.

Eighth grade certificates were awarded to thirty-three students of Polk Township at the Maryville High School building this afternoon. Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools, granted the diplomas to the rural graduates. Miss Grace M. Shepherd of the State Teachers College addressed the students. She gave them a "Talk of Encouragement."

Scholarships were awarded by Superintendent Somerville. Only four high schools in the county offered scholarships this year.

The county scholarship was won by Delmar Schooler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Schooler, who live southwest of Maryville. His average in the eighth grade examination of 92 5-9 entitled him to four years' free tuition to the Maryville High School. He attended Bell Grove school.

The Harmony High School scholarship of one year was won by Dorothy Good of Long Branch school. Her average was 88 8-9. The Harmony High School offered a one year course. She took her examination at the Harmony school.

She also won the Union township two year scholarship offered by the Pickering High School with the same average. There was a tie between Marjorie Lett and Winifred Winkler for the one-year scholarship offered by the Pickering High School. Their averages were 87 1-9. Miss Lett attended the Happy Hollow school, district 29 and Miss Winkler attended Long Branch school, district No. 60.

Conception Junction High School offered a scholarship. There were only two who took the examination that were eligible for the scholarship and neither made a high enough average.

GOOD SHOWING OIL AT DEPTH OF 1,301 FEET

Tomorrow Should Show What Results Will Be, Geologist Howard Manning Declares.

"There is a good showing of oil at a depth of 1,301 feet."

This was the statement this afternoon of Howard Manning, geologist, regarding oil well No. 2 of the Quitman Gas and Oil Company, located nine and a half miles northwest of Maryville.

The drillers struck a sand at the 1300-foot depth at midnight Friday and from then until yesterday fought off a cave-in. "Rainbow colors continually show in the 700 feet of salt water in the well," Mr. Manning said. This, he declared, is a good indication of oil.

"Whether we strike a good flow, or whether it is only a one foot strata of sand cannot be determined until the water, which is continually rushing into the well, can be shut off and drilling resumed", he said.

Yesterday the contractor, George H. Rose, started to put down the 6-inch casing and expected to finish the job of changing to 6-inch tools today. By putting down the six inch casing the water can be shut off and then pumped out, Mr. Manning said.

Drilling from the 1301 foot depth will be resumed tomorrow morning and tomorrow should show what the results will be—a gusher; a good showing of oil—or a disappointment.

Automobiles by the hundreds brought interested spectators to the location yesterday. Mr. Manning estimated that, all told, more than 1,000 persons visited the site during the day. All kinds of rumors have gone out about the well, he said. Mr. Manning said he received long distance calls from all parts of the county and over as far as Craig. Some reports have gone out that a gusher was brought in, that the 6-inch casing had been put down and the water shut off, and that operations had progressed sufficiently to "shoot" the well tomorrow.

Southeast Missouri Mob Lynches Negro

Caruthersville, Mo., May 23.—Lynched by a mob which last night took him from the Pemiscot county jail, the body of Will Sherrod, negro, was found today hanging on an improvised scaffold in the village of Braggadocio, west of here.

The jail was stormed last night by a mob of unknown men and Sherrod was hanged.

BIG DIRIGIBLE JERKED APART

TC-10-243 IS DESTROYED AT BROOKS FIELD, TEXAS.

CREW OUT UNINJURED

Commander and Five Men Scramble to Safety as Huge Bag Crumples Upon Them.

San Antonio, May 23.—The Army dirigible TC-10-243 was jerked in two parts and destroyed this afternoon as it was taking the air at Brooks field on a flight to Scott Field, Illinois.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander, and his crew of five men escaped without injury, although they fell under the great bag. There was no fire.

The great ship had just been maneuvered out of its hangar and the motors started. It got under way, with the mooring cable attached to a 400 foot track on the ground. About half the length of the track, the lower end of the cable caught in a rail joint. There was a terrific jerk and the fast moving dirigible was jerked from a height of about 40 feet.

There was a mighty hissing sound as the fabric gave way and the imprisoned gas rushed out, while those caught beneath the wreckage fought madly to get clear.

The bag crumpled in a few seconds but in those few seconds the crew had scrambled free of the car. Less than a minute after the jerk, the big dirigible lay in a twistd mass on the ground.

Commander Strauss said he thought the ship could be repaired.

Plan for 125 Good Fellowship Trippers

5 Kansas City Men At Chamber Of Commerce Luncheon Today To Further Arrangements.

Five representatives of the Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City, in a colorfully decorated Packard pathfinder car, visited in Maryville today at noon and were guests of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce at luncheon at the Country Club. The visitors were here to make arrangements for the coming on Tuesday, June 21, of more than 125 Goodfellowship trippers on their annual June tour. They will visit on this tour forty-four towns and nineteen county seats.

This is the first time the trip has been routed through northwestern Missouri, according to W. F. Coleman, a member of the party. It is anticipated to be one of the most successful, judging from assurance made the Kansas City delegation by the various towns and cities along the route.

Members of the pathfinder party were:

P. Loyd Lewis, Mr. Coleman, Hugh Thompson, W. A. Schaubert and C. E. Haterius, secretary Young Men's Department of the Chamber of Commerce.

The plans provide for the party to arrive in Maryville about 6 o'clock on the evening of June 21. They will be entertained at dinner after which a dance in their honor will be given at the Country Club. As the hotels here are unable to accommodate that number, several members of the party will stay at private homes during the night. For breakfast the next morning, the party will be taken to Residence Hall.

The first day's trip, June 21, will include Smithville, St. Joseph, Savannah, Oregon for lunch stop, Mound City, Fairfax, Tarkio, Burlington Junction and Maryville. On the following day, the party will go to Stanberry, Albany, Bethany, Pattonsburg for lunch stop, Cameron, Hamilton, Gallatin, Jamesport and Trenton.

LINDBERGH'S TIME IS FULL

IN LEGION OF HONOR

President of France Himself Confers Decoration.—"Could Have Done 1,000 Miles More."

Detroit, May 23.—An appeal was dispatched today to President Coolidge by Roger Babson, financial expert, requesting President Coolidge to take advantage of Captain Lindbergh's "stroke to the American people's heart," and appoint the daring flier head of aviation.

"The real test of Lindbergh," Babson declared, "comes when he could choose between $500,000 in the movies and vaudeville and a possible $5,000 job on constructive work in Washington."

Washington, May 23.—The White House withheld comment today on the suggestion of Roger Babson for appointment of Lindbergh as head of aviation.

Byrd Seeks New Field.

New York, May 23.—While the world still honored the epochal flight of Capt. Lindbergh, the Bellanca plane was officially withdrawn from competition and Commander Byrd and his crew were searching geographies for new places to go.

It was thought that Byrd was considering Honolulu or Spitzenbergen.

Could Make A Million.

New York, May 23.—Captain Lindbergh could cash in on the world's admiration of his flight at anywhere from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, it was estimated today.

New York, May 23.—A New York clipping bureau estimated today that 27,000 columns of newspaper space had been priuted about the flight of Captain Lindbergh.

Paris, May 23.—Ambassador Herrick became Capt. Charles Lindbergh's social secretary today, advising him which of the multitude of invitations to accept.

Lindbergh will refuse invitations to visit other countries in Europe, although he has offers from every capital.

He has a steady circle of appointments to fill all his time in Paris.

One of the happiest men in Paris today was the mail pilot whose vest Lindbergh borrowed during the getaway from the crowd, after the landing Saturday night. During the inspection of his plane today, Lindbergh handed the vest back to the pilot, who grabbed the flier, hugged him and then did a war dance.

Into Legion of Honor.

Lindbergh, conqueror of the Atlantic, today became a knight of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his non-stop flight from New York to Paris. Lindbergh received the decoration and a kiss on either cheek in the private study of President Doumergue of France.

Ambassador Myron Herrick, who had as much thrill out of the thing as the flyer himself, accompanied Lindbergh on his visit to the president.

Lindbergh arose early and motored to the flying field, accompanied by American officials and escorted by French officials. Arriving at the hangar, he hurried to inspect the plane to determine the damage received from the exuberant manhandling of the welcoming crowd Saturday.

Better Than Expected.

"I found the plane in better shape than I expected," Lindbergh told the United Press. "I was afraid the crowd would tear it to pieces."

Lindbergh set at rest rumors that he would return to the United States by plane, pointing out, "There isn't any reason to fly back now."

He said he intended to return soon by boat. It is expected that he will start back May 31 on the liner Leviathan. Lindbergh said that he hoped his plane would be shipped back on the same boat with him.

The landing field where he dropped to earth Saturday night presented a

British Fliers Forced Down in Persian Gulf

Aviators Carr and Gillman Stay in Air an Hour Longer Than Lindbergh But Go Only 3,400 Miles.

Aboard U. S. Donax, in the Persian Gulf, May 23.—Flight Lieutenants C. R. Carr and L. M. Gilman, who were forced down in a shark infested sea, en route to Cranwell, England, to British India, were aboard this vessel today, safe.

Simla, British India, May 23.—Lieuts. C. R. Carr and L. M. S. Gillman of the royal air service, who started May 20, from England on a non-stop flight to India, have been rescued in the Persian Gulf. Their plane was forced down.

London, May 23.—Although great disappointment was manifest here over the news that Lieutenants Carr and Gillman had failed in their attempt to make a non-stop flight to India, their performance is considered highly creditable.

The air ministry confirmed that the two airmen were forced to alight at sea forty-five miles east of Bender Abbas, in the Persian Gulf. They were rescued by a ship and are being taken to Abadan. Their machine, a special Hawker-Horsley plane, fitted with Rolls Royce motors, is a wreck.

Their total flying time was 34 hours 33 minutes and for just an hour on Saturday they held the long-distance non-stop record until Captain Lindbergh breezed into Le Bourget. They had flown 3,400 miles and are believed to have covered more mileage than the two Frenchmen, Coste and Rignot, who by flying to Yask, Persia, last October, were credited with the world's long distance non-stop flight ord.

Lindbergh, however, beat both these marks with his 3,600-mile air epic. Lieutenants Carr and Gillman were actually in the air one hour longer than Lindbergh.

sad appearance in daylight. It was littered with torn hats and clothing launched by the frantic crowd that welcomed the American, and officials estimated the damage at 30,000 francs. Ten persons were seriously injured and taken to hospitals. Lindbergh may fly over Paris in his monoplane to satisfy demands of the public for a chance to see him in the air.

Lindbergh likes Paris and has developed a weakness for French pastry. Incomprehensible as it may be to the French, Lindbergh has refused champagne and even cigarettes.

During the dinner at the American embassy, Lindbergh chose one of the most elaborate confections of French pastry. It tasted good and, after a moment's hesitation, the young man who brought letters of introduction with him so he wouldn't be lonely inquired of Ambassador Herrick whether he could have another.

Lindbergh said, "We could have kept on for another thousand miles. The old ship could have done that easily.

Cures Piles Now Without Surgery

A most successful method for removing piles entirely and for good is now being used by Dr. O. A. Johnson, well known rectal specialist. He does not use the knife, acids, electricity, burning, tying off, cautery, ligatures or other painful, drastic means. Yet the piles are removed as cleanly and entirely as if they had been cut out. His method does away with pain, danger, expense, and inconvenience of a surgical operation and accomplishes even better results, as it leaves no scar tissues.

Every sufferer from bleeding, protruding piles, and other rectal troubles should write at once for his book that explains his amazing method. He will gladly mail any one who will write for one, as he wants every sufferer to know how easily, quickly and safely they may be rid of their piles for good. Simply send name and address to Dr. O. A. Johnson, suite 134-C, 1324 Main St., Kansas City, Mo. Piles often may cause many other troubles, such as headaches, backaches, rheumatism, stomach trouble, sciatica, nervousness, etc. Getting rid of piles means also getting rid of the many diseases they cause.

Lindbergh--and Two Other Notable Achievements

Remarkable as was the achievement of Captain Charles Lindbergh, Missouri's "flyin' fool," in making his continuous flight from New York to Paris, it was rivaled by the press services of this country and of Europe in reporting the progress of the flight and flashing its termination.

Lindbergh landed at LeBourget aviation field, near Paris, at 10.21 Saturday night—3:21 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Maryville's time. Exactly nine minutes later, the official news of the exploit was in Maryville, received by the Democrat-Forum over long distance telephone wire from Kansas City.

It took longer to get the news from Kansas City to Maryville than it did from the French flying field to Kansas City.

In three minutes the news went by telegraph from LeBourget to the cable sending station and from there over the cable to New York. In one minute it was in Kansas City over the trunk telegraph wire of the United Press. Five minutes later, just at 3:30, the news came by telephone to the Democrat-Forum.

It was several minutes later that WDAF, radio station of the Kansas City Star, broadcast the news of Lindbergh's safe arrival.

Equally as remarkable were pictures taken at the New York flying field Friday morning, when Lindbergh hopped off, and reproduced in the Democrat-Forum Saturday afternoon.

These pictures showed Lindbergh's backers helping him into his flying togs and the "Spirit of St. Louis" as it began the epochal journey. They were taken at 5:51½ o'clock Friday morning at Roosevelt Field, sent by telephoto process over the American Telegraph and Telephone wires from New York to St. Louis, and then by special delivery mail service to Maryville, arriving here Saturday noon—over a distance which would have required at least three days by ordinary train service.

The pictures were taken by the N. E. A. service, of which the Democrat-Forum is a subscriber, together with many of the leading papers of the country.

HE REVERSES THE CUSTOM

JUDGE ALDERMAN SENDS FLOWERS ON HIS BIRTHDAY.

86 YEARS OLD TODAY

Civil War Veteran Says He Is As Young In Spirit As Ever; Getting Better Daily.

Judge Ira K. Alderman is one Maryville man who believes it is more blessed to give than to receive and on this, his eighty-sixth birthday, he celebrated the day by sending flowers to his friends. He has so many friends that it took many flowers to remember even a few of them.

And Judge Alderman's friends and relatives remembered him. The mails were filled with cards and congratulations. A gift from the "long distance" girls across the hall from the judge's office was among those received and most appreciated.

The judge came to Maryville in the fall of 1866 and was principal of the school here. At that time Maryville was an enterprising hamlet of 500 inhabitants. He first went to Savannah in the spring of '66 and came on to Maryville in time to teach. The following summer he returned to Ohio, and was married. The judge was born in Morgan county Ohio, in 1841. His wife, also a native of Ohio, was Miss Hallie S. Lallance. Mrs. Alderman died in 1919.

When Mr. Alderman was 17 years old, the Civil War broke out. The judge enlisted in Company B, Thirty-sixth Ohio Regiment, under General George Crook. He served more than three years and participated in the battles of Second Bull Run, South Mountain, Antietam, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Chattanooga and others.

Judge Alderman has three children, Dale V. of St. Joseph; Mrs. Ada A. Bingaman, Cordell, Okla.; and Ira Verne, Shreveport, La.

After teaching here one year, Mr. Alderman went into the Anderson Brothers lumber yard as clerk and salesman. Later he was employed in the William T. Orear Dry Goods Store.

In 1870 the Ohioan was elected judge of the probate court. He served four years and refused election. At that time the pay was very poor.

"I have been here all these years because I never was able to get away," the judge declared, laughing.

"It has been thirty years since I tried a case in circuit court alone," he said. Deafness has caused him to give up his more active work. "My practice went with my ears," he explained.

"I never felt younger. I am anything but old in feling and deafness. I am just old in years," the veteran declared. Four years ago he suffered an attack of paralysis and since that time has been somewhat crippled but he says he is getting better daily.

He was national secretary of the Standard Poland-China Record Association and it was Judge Alderman who worked out the system now used by the organization. His photograph appeared in the second volume of the Breeders' Gazette as national president of the association.

The judge has been active in affairs of the Methodist church here and was for many years superintendent of the Sunday School. He attended the general conference of the Methodist Church in 1880.

"My friends and friendships mean as much to me as ever," the veteran attorney said.

"When I came out of the hospital after my attack of paralysis Mrs. S. T. Gile took my meals to me for more than a month. I called her this morning and asked if I could go down for dinner. So that is where I am going."

Judge Alderman was not the only one in his family fond of flowers. Mrs. Alderman was especially fond of them also. Carnations and roses are the judge's favorites.

The judge had his photograph taken this morning.

J. I. Latimer Artist With Pocket Knife

With It as Only Tool, Farmer Near Maryville Makes Many Curious Objects.

To pass away his spare time while the rains kept him inside this spring, J. I. Latimer, who lives on a farm, ten miles northwest of Maryville, took his pocket knife as his only tool and made a red cedar curio box, 10 by 15 inches and 4½ inches high at the back, that contains miniature objects from a squirrel to a violin.

Just by "whittling away," Mr. Latimer said, he carved out the many tiny articles, using neither a rule or square. He had the box, which he covered with a glass, at the office of Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools.

The box itself is highly finished and slopes upward to the back. The feet, on legs, are black walnut balls. included in the curio box are a swivel and chain, a violin, a squirrel, rabbit, chair, chicken, shears, pitchfork, spade, hammer, saw, rifle, pistol, hunter's knife, ax, rolling pin, butter churn, saddle made out of squirrel's hide, and a book, with the inscription "secret."

At the back of the box in the inside is Mr. Latimer's name in white wooden letters. He used willow, box elder, cedar, and black walnut in making the box and contents.

Mr. Latimer pulled out a three-bladed, pearl-handled knife and said he did all the work with it.

Another Anniversary for Harvey L. Haines

Well Known Merchant Opened His Store Here 13 Years Ago.—Has had Big Growth.

Harvey L. Haines this week is celebrating his thirteenth anniversary in business in this city. He started in business here in his present location. He attributed his success to "living up to the Golden Rule" in every transaction and to newspaper advertising, which he uses exclusively.

Mr. Haines is a native of Missouri, having been born at Bigelow. However, the family located in Kansas shortly afterwards.

When he opened his business here, Mr. Haines started with four clerks and a $7,000 stock. Today he has several times that number and his stock several times greater than when he started.

BUHLER PITCHES WELL

Maryville Hurler Keeps Eight Hits Scattered.—Visitors' Errors Costly.

Dad Luke Summa and five other Summas from Gentry who have played baseball since the boys were big enough to eat green apples, came to Maryville yesterday, and with three companions, were defeated 8 to 0 by Maryville, in the Comets' first victory in the Northwest Missouri League.

Henry Buhler did the pitching for Maryville. Although he allowed eight hits, one better than the Maryville total, he held the blows scattered and the tally book showed eight Gentry men left on bases.

While showers were all the time imminent, the teams took the field before a large crowd. Everything ran nicely until the fourth inning. Maryville got a man on first in the opening frame when Lewis singled, but he died there. Search clouted out the second hit for Maryville in the next inning and he got to second on a steal. However, Luke Summa pulled the old hidden ball stunt and Search sheepishly walked into the Maryville bench. But it wasn't all his fault.

Tracy Lewis, who had made a hit his first time to bat, was walked by Lisle, the first man up in the fourth inning. Shultz advanced Lewis when he tapped a grounder to Lisle and was out at first. Brennan did the same trick but Lisle stood pat. Tommy Tobin, who is hard to pitch to, was walked and then Search, to redeem himself, clouted out another hit to score both Maryville runners. Laughlin ended the inning by flying out to left fielder.

Not content with a two-run lead, Maryville brought four more in the next frame. Carmichael went out, third to first, but Buhler got to base on the Shortstop's bad throw. Phil Tobin hit a single, advancing Buhler, and then Lewis got a hit to score both men. Shultz got to first on an error of the first baseman. Brennan went out third to first but Tommy Tobin went to first on another error of the Gentry shortstop and on a bad throw home by the first baseman both Maryville runners came in. Search struck out.

Along came the sixth inning and with one down P. Summa clouted a three-bagger. Luke Summa went to first on a fielder's choice but Buhler watched P. Summa and on a four way play caught him between third and home. Buhler threw to Carmichael who tossed the ball to Tracy Lewis who threw to T. Tobin and Tommy tagged the runner.

Maryville again scored in the eighth. Brennan got his first hit of the game. T. Tobin doubled, Brennan stopping at third. On a fielder's choice, Brennan was caught at home and Search went to first. A wild throw by the catcher brought in the last two scores.

A big crowd witnessed the Maryville victory and the brand of ball played by the Comets should bring out another crowd for the game here Memorial Day with King City. Maryville plays Union Star Sunday.

GOOD DAY FOR COUNTY TEAMS

FIVE BASEBALL NINES WIN; ONLY TWO LOSE.

WILL DISCUSS LEAGUE

Meeting Is Called Here For Tuesday Night To Organize A County Circuit With Six Teams.

Sunday was a favorable day for Nodaway County baseball teams, except for Barnard and Wilcox. In the Northwest Missouri League both Hopkins and Maryville won, defeating Gentry and Albany.

In the County League Graham defeated Rosendale, 6 to 0; Barnard lost to Pickering, 4 to 5; and Quitman defeated Wilcox 17 to 4.

A meeting will be held at Maryville Tuesday evening when representatives of the proposed teams of the county league will make an effort to effect an organization and draw up a schedule for the summer. The proposed members are Pickering, Graham, Barnard, Wilcox, Quitman and Rosendale.

Harry Summers, pitching for Graham yesterday, fanned twenty men and only twenty-nine Rosendale batters faced him. Marcus was the Graham catcher while Pryor and Duke formed the Rosendale battery. Graham made ten hits and no errors, while Rosendale got one hit and made two errors. Graham will play Barnard at Graham next Sunday.

At Pickering Martin Carmichael and Paul Burks, at short stop and second base, covered their positions well and executed two double plays, the main features of the game. Gumm and Burch were the Pickering battery, while Hann started on the mound for Barnard with Hubble as catcher. In the sixth inning Hubble relieved Hann and Stalling went behind the bat.

Mrs. T. L. Wadley returned Saturday night from Excelsior Springs where she spent three weeks.

Professor Griffith of the University of Michigan in an investigation proved that today's Ford car will have two years longer life than the average of other make cars. There's a reason for Ford's longer service record that THE INSIDE STORY quickly reveals.

1—The quality of steel used in today's Ford is the same as is used in the Lincoln. The highest quality steel known.

2—Today's Ford has a torque tube drive found only in the world's finest cars. Today's Ford is the only car under the $3,000 class equipped with a dual ignition system.

3—Today's Ford has more horse power for each 100 lbs. of weight than any other car made.

4—Today's Ford transmission costs more to build—can't strip gears, is fool proof—simple to operate and gives quicker getaway in traffic.

With all these facts of quality built-in, today's Ford in its new colors, all-steel stream-line bodies, steel wheels and sturdy beauty, offers you a car you will be proud to own. You can only get the inside story by riding in today's Ford.

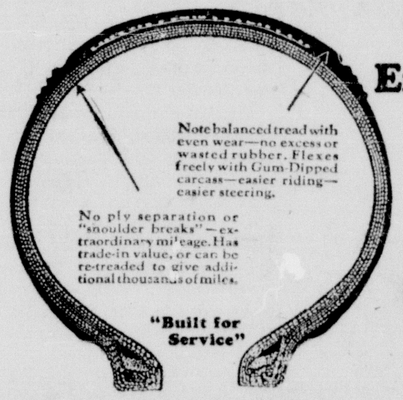
Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES



Note balanced tread with even wear—no excess or wasted rubber. Flexes freely with Gum-Dipped carcass—easier riding—easier steering.
No ply separation or "shoulder breaks"—extraordinary mileage. Has trade-in value, or can be re-treaded to give additional thousands of miles.
"Built for Service"

Firestone Round Tread Balloon

MANY Firestone Dealers are prepared to take in your old tires, offering you a liberal allowance on a new set of Gum-Dipped Balloons.

Firestone Dealers are given the advantages of attending Tire Educational Meetings held throughout the country, where tire design and construction are discussed. The sections of used tires reproduced here are a part of this program. Study these two sections and you, too, will understand what Firestone means by tires built for service and tires made to sell.

Note unbalanced tread with uneven wear—excess rubber at shoulders wasted, stiffening tire, making it harder riding and harder steering.
Note how hinging action at heavy shoulder causes ply separation and broken carcass.
"Made to Sell"

Flat Tread Balloon

The Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloon with its scientifically designed tread permits free flexing, easier riding, extra comfort and safety.

The balloon tire with heavy, flat tread design is obviously stiffer and rides harder. The excess rubber, placed for appearance at the edges of the tread, is not only wasted but produces hinging action causing ply separation and "shoulder breaks."

Firestone designed and manufactures Oldfield Tires and Tubes, distributing them direct to Firestone Dealers only, through 148 Factory Warehouses. This efficient and economical distribution assures tire buyers everywhere, clean, fresh stocks of Firestone and Oldfield Tires in all types and sizes, and has helped to make possible today's remarkably low prices—the lowest in tire history. THIS HAS HAPPENED

BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX, and WINNIE SHELTON, department store employes, are taken as wards into the home of their millionaire employer, T. Q. CURTIS, for one year, because he wants to help them further ambitions which they have expressed.

Billy, who desires to become a concert violinist, is the only one of the three who is sincerely ambitious, the others having lied to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity. When they learn, by accident, that he intends to adopt one of them as his daughter when the year is up, a battle follows for his affections. Billy is unwillingly drawn into the contest, and this, together with her infatuation for DAL ROMAINE, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, hired hostess for the girls, causes her to neglect her violin. Through everything she tenderly remembers CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is boarding with Mrs. Wells in the poor part of the town, working in the Truman factory in the day and writing music at night.

Dal Romaine takes Billy to a country house conducted by a Hindu and there he makes ardent love to her. He begs her to keep their romance a secret until the year is up so as not to interfere with Curtis' agreement. Billy is poignantly jealous when she learns that Winnie is going to meet Romaine. The same day, RALPH TRUMAN takes Billy through his father's automobile factory. She sees Clay before he is aware of her presence, and she is hurt and shocked to see his thin body bent over the hideously noisy machine, to see the face twisted in nervous agony. She asks Ralph to leave her alone with Clay. She points out to Clay then that there is a certain cadence and rhythm in the noise of the big machinery and that the other men have caught it and are working in harmony.

During the factory tour, Ralph warns Billy against Dal Romaine. Billy is so hurt she leaves Ralph and, finding Clay in the crowd of departing workmen, rides to town on the bus with him. He proposes to Billy, but she refuses, saying she could not now marry a laboring man. Clay believes her precipitation into sudden wealth has ruined her and leaves her in disgust. Billy goes home to find a note from Dal Romaine.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 37

The note from Dal Romaine was printed in tiny, beautiful characters. The sight of his writing gave Billy a queer shock. She had never seen anything from his pen before, but she had imagined that he would write dashingly. The note, on a deckle-edged square of expensive correspondence paper, such as a fastidious woman might use, was dated simply "Friday."

"I'd forgotten it's Friday," Billy whispered to herself. She looked up, caught sight of her own image in the triple mirrors of her dressing table, and was shocked and incredulous at what she saw. Somewhere on that mad flight home she had lost her hat.

She passed a hand wearily across her eyes, pushed back the wild tangle of her chestnut curls, tried to see herself clearly, out of the fog of her misery, in the triple mirrors. How pale she was! She shivered, and focussed her eyes on the note in her hand.

"Friday—6 p. m. Mignon, darling, I must leave without seeing you, and now I must hurry away to make a train. I am called to Chicago on urgent business, and shall not be able to return until Monday. That means, dear heart, that our Saturday and Sunday engagements are off, or at least, postponed. I am terribly sorry, dear, but I know you will understand and forgive. I did so want to see you before I left. Goodby, darling. I am holding you fast. You understand. Dal."

She read it three times, painstakingly, like a child who is just learning its letters, then realization rushes in upon her. He was gone. She would not see him for three days. But he loved her. He loved her! She picked out the words of endearment—"Mignon darling"—"dear heart" — "dear"—"darling"—

Suddenly she crumpled into a heap upon the long, cushioned chair, and sobbed with an abandon which she had never permitted herself before in her life. But as she sobbed she kept the stiff card, with its tiny, beautiful printing, pressed against her grief-twisted lips. He was gone, when she needed him most, but he had left her something of himself—

Viola, the colored maid, found her a little later, a spent, quivering little heap, and gently lifted her into her arms and helped her to undress.

"I'll get your bath ready, Miss Billy. You-all got a dinner party tonight, honey. Don't you remember?"

"Tell Miss Shelton I want to see her—right away," Billy roused herself from the lethargy in which her weeping had left her.

"Lawdy, Miss Billy, Miss Winnie ain't here. She left 'bout four o'clock to go off on a week-end trip to the country. Mis' Meadows, she mighty put out about it, too. Her dinner party all ever' which way now, with Mr. Dal and Miss Winnie hikin' off at the last minute—"

Billy's hands which had been rubbing cleansing cream into her wan cheeks, seemed to freeze into immobility. Her heart felt as if it would never beat again. But when she did speak, her voice sounded casual to the maid.

"I didn't know Miss Shelton was going away for the week-end. Where did she go, do you know, Viola? Mr. Romaine was called to Chicago on business."

"Lawdy, honey," Viola chuckled, "she say she going to them Barkerses what she run around with so much, but I dunno. She sure took a lot o' glad rags for a quiet week-end in the country," the colored girl added meaningfully.

"My bath must be ready," Billy cried in a choking voice.

As she lay in the violet-scented warm water, she tried to think coherently. Surely it was just a coincidence that Winnie should suddenly decide to accept a week-end invitation on the very day that Dal was called to Chicago for a week-end. But Dal had said that it was urgent business. And this was Friday evening. He would not arrive in Chicago until Saturday morning. Most business men considered Saturday a holiday. And if he planned to be back on Monday, he would have to leave Chicago Sunday night—

"I'm not going to be a suspicious little fool!" she told herself fiercely. "Ralph was just trying to frighten me, linking Dal's name with Winnie's. Ralph's jealous of Dal. He hates him because he wanted to marry Annette—or did Dal really try to marry that big, gawky, plain thing? I don't believe it."

But that reflection did not comfort her for long. Her lips twisted bitterly with a new reflection: "So you think Ralph's in love with you, too, you little idiot!" she apostrophized herself scornfully. "Getting to be like Nyda and Winnie and all the other girls—think every man that looks at you is in love with you. Nobody loves you. Clay hates you, despises you—and who could blame him? Dal's having a wonderful time stringing you along. All that idotic rot about being a mystic, and putting a spell on you! You're easy, Billy Wells!"

But it would not work. She could not lash herself into a self-respecting, nonchalant, don't-care attitude toward Dal Romaine.

The informal dinner party, which had been planned for eight, had shrunk to six. T. Q. Curtis, sitting opposite Mrs. Meadows, was moody and irritable. Nyda, splendidly beautiful in the new dress of lipstick red chiffon over gold cloth, coquetted almost absent-mindedly with Bruce Kruger, her dark eyes somber with a sort of angry trouble, while Ralph Truman, Billy's dinner partner, sat almost silent, his usually merry gray-blue eyes dark, with brooding.

"Will you play for us, Billy, my dear?" T. Q. asked, when the somber dinner had slowly dragged itself to an end. "I think we all need cheering up a bit. I'm afraid I've been guilty of bringing my business troubles home with me, but if you'll play, I'll forget them."

Billy started to refuse, automatically. It seemed absurd that anyone could expect her to play that night, after all she had been through. But something desperate, hunted, infinitely pathetic in T. Q. Curtis' eyes brought her up sharply. After all, she told herself cynically, that was the way she paid for her board and lodging.

She had dressed without a thought as to what she was putting on, docilely slipping into the dress which Viola had chosen as appropriate for a very small dinner party. Now, as she came back into the drawing room with her violin on her arm, she realized that she was wearing the autumn-leaf dress which T. Q. had given her for the first party in his home. The dress brought such piognant memories of the first time she had worn it, to show it off to Clay and her mother, that she heard again the ripple of notes under Clay's fingers as he improvised a song for her.

She lifted her violin to her chin and almost without conscious intention began to play that song which Clay had dedicated to her in that dress—"To an Autumn Dryad." It was a gay, lilting, joyous little piece, but as she played it, she infused into a quality of pathos and despair, and a hopeless love-cry that brought tears into the eyes of old T. Q. Curtis.

When she had finished, she walked straight out of the drawing room, heedless of the spontaneous burst of applause and of Mrs. Meadows' and Bruce Kruger's demands for more.

She was putting her violin away in the music room when T. Q. Curtis' voice startled her to attention.

"Thank you, Billy, my dear." There was the roughness of unaccustomed tears in his voice. "Who wrote the piece, child? I've never heard it before—but then I know so little about classical music." He came to her and quite simply, with fatherly affection, put an arm about her shoulders.

"It's not a classic—yet, Mr. Curtis," she answered, her words muffled against his dinner coat. "It was written by—your son—to me. It is called, 'To an Autumn Dryad.'"

His arm tightened on her shoulder. "Thank you for telling me—and for not telling me—in there," he said huskily. "Sometimes, Billy, I wish I had not taken you away from your mother—and Clay."

"I'll go home tonight, if you say!" Billy cried out, misunderstanding him.

T. Q.'s brows bushed in the old familiar way, and his sad eyes twinkled with a tiny flicker of amusement. "I didn't mean it as you take it," he said gruffly. "I know you're not happy here, that none of your girls is really as happy as I had hoped you would be. What I meant was that it might have been better for you if I had not taken you away from Clay. You loved him didn't you, child?"

"Yes." She threw back her head defiantly.

"And if he wrote that beautiful little song to you, he must have loved you, too. Listen, Billy, "tell Clay to come on home, and you two can get married. What do you say, Billy child?"

She grinned at him then, a twisted little grin that was painful to see. "I did tell him today—and he threw me down. He won't come back—and marry me. He despises me now, because I asked him to come back. Oh, please don't make me tell you all about it, Mr. Curtis. I—I was trying to save myself from—from something awful dreadful, and I didn't for the minute, care whether I was hurting Clay or not. I—I can't go home now, Mr. Curtis. Oh!" She bowed her head on her hands.

"There, there, honey! Old T. Q. will forget all about it," he soothed her. "We all make mistakes. I do—God knows, I've made my share. Now, come let's forget about it, and make the most of this year we have. But I'm glad to know the boy can write a grand little song like that. I didn't know—"

"What in the world are you two doing in here so long?" Nyda's languorous voice called from the doorway. "We want to make up a table for bridge. We need you, Daddy Curtis, for a fourth. Ralph says he wants to see you alone, Billy. Oh, how sweet young love is!" she added, in her slow, contralto drawl.

Billy's tired nerves collapse and she breaks under the strain. Also, she learns something more about Dal Romaine.

LINDBERGH TO A SAD MOTHER AS FIRST ACT

"Flying Fool" Wins Heart of France All Over Again by Call on Madame Nungesser.

Paris, May 23.—The world's hero of the hour did a simple and unaffected thing when he awoke from the long, unbroken sleep which followed his amazing flight from New York to Paris.

Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh's first wish of the day which found him safe and sound after the most remarkable aerial achievement of all time was to call on Madame Nungesser, grey-haired mother of the French flier who was lost in attempting the flight which the young American completed.

While all Paris waited impatiently for a glimpse of the youth who rode alone across the skies from the new world to the old and while officials of the French government planned elaborate receptions and honors for him, Lindbergh went straight to the arms of the mother of the missing French ace, and helped to ease her sorrow with boyish words of comfort.

Tears streamed down Madame Nungesser's wrinkled cheeks and tears were in the eyes of the audacious youngster as Lindbergh, ignoring the world's adulation, haltingly blurted out:

"I wanted my first visit to be to the mother of my gallant comrade."

By this touching act, Captain Lindbergh won all over again the heart of France.

Before his visit to Madame Nungesser, Lindbergh slept like a baby for nearly twelve hours.

"A Safe Investment" Is Prather's Theme

Baptist Congregation Hears Talk On Faith at Service Last Night.

"A Safe Investment" was the subject of the sermon given by the Rev. Guy L. Prather of the First Baptist Church last night.

"Paul was not ashamed of his faith though he had to suffer for it. He expressed his faith in strong terms," the pastor declared.

"His faith was not unreasoning, built on prejudice, ignorance, or fear. But the intelligent faith of a cultural mind built on close experience, long investigation, and fervent appreciation.

"The heart of Christian faith attaches to a person, Christ Jesus. 'I kow whom I believe' not 'what' I believe. The 'what' of Christian faith is largely dead unless it is attached to the 'whom' of faith, Christ Jesus, and thus lives.

"The Christian man entrusts much with the Lord. Paul uses the banking term 'deposit'. He turns over into the Lord's hands his complete salvation, the direction of his life in work and pleasure and money and protection, all his future interests.

"His deposit with the Lord is safe and ever increases in value, because the Lord is able and faithful, and stands as a strong guard round about the Christian man and his every interest.

"Thus comes calmness of faith, a quiet heart, a sense of safety. As "that day" appears on the horizon, faith is confident. The time will come when we will need all we have deposited with the Lord. And in love and according to his promise he will return it to us with interest."

"Smilin' Through" Is Well-Given Production

Appreciative Audience Nearly Fills Auditorium At College Saturday Night.

"Smilin' Through," from the well-known play by Allan Langdon Martin, in a prolog and three acts, was presented Saturday night at the State Teachers College auditorium by an able cast selected from the graduating class of the College. It was a well given production, with good acting and an artistic stage arrangement of a quaint English garden scene with a Queen Anne cottage in the background. Music of the same title as the play was given at moments throughout the play.

Gordon Roach as John Carteret and Orval Adams as Dr. Owen Harding were excellent in the prominent roles which they played. Ethel Bostwick, as Ellen, was "human to the core" in her part.

The others of the cast were: Sara Wayne, Mary Esther O'Banion; Mary Clare, Ruby Goodwin; Kathleen Daugannon, Dorothy England; Willis Ainsley, Wilson Craig; Kenneth Wayne, Burdette Yeo; First Lady, Nelle Castle; Second Lady, Helen Qualls; Third Lady, Margaret Mills; First Gentleman, Ora McPherron; Second Gentleman, Merlin Warehime; Third Gentleman, Guy Canady; Jeremiah Wayne, Fred Street; Moonyeen, Clare Frieda Bennett.

Claims Entered for Land Taken by State

Persons Living West of Burlington Junction Apepar Before County Court Today.

Seven persons living west of Burlington Junction along the proposed survey of Highway No. 18, out of Burlington Junction, today appeared before the county court in special session to make claims for their land which will be taken by the state for the highway.

The judges of the county court, with a member of the state highway department, will view the land where damages have been asked, on Saturday.

Judge E. T. Bailey, said that according to the survey for the proposed road, two houses will have to be moved before the road can be put through.

The road will be so constructed as to go through the homes of Erwin Hallis and Mrs. L. Timmons. Each put in claims for $1,000.

Daniel Closs claimed $1,500 damages, James Dew, $600 and E. C. Johnson, $400.

Henry Messbarger and Mrs. William Houston appeared before the court. They did not put in claims as they did not know how the road would cut through their farms.

The case against W. S. Linville, Skidmore banker, charged with disturbing the peace, has been dismissed as there was no one to press the charges, it was announced at Skidmore today.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, May 23.—A flood of reports on the deterioration of winter wheat in the Southwest, with unfavorable American and Canadian Northwest conditions, resulted in sharply higher prices on the Chicago Board of Trade today. Winnipeg prices moved up from 3 to 4 cents, due to heavy rains in the western provinces. The cash market was ½ cent higher.

Corn had an early bulge with wheat, but persistent selling took prices off from the early high. The cash market was steady to ½ cent lower.

Oats advanced with wheat but trade was dull. The cash market was unchanged.

Banks to Give Bond for County's Funds

New Requirement by County Court Causes Reduction in Interest Rate to 2.5 Per Cent.

For the first time, banks in Nodaway County will give indemnifying bonds to protect the daily balances of the county's money.

The county court today ordered the three Maryville Banks, the First National, Farmers Trust and Nodaway Valley, to secure bonds when these banks were selected as the county depositories. Each bank was awarded one-third of the county's daily balance.

Because of the fact that the banks will have to buy the bonds to protect the county's money, the interest rate was lowered. The banks agreed to pay 2.5 per cent interest on the daily balance, which averages about $20,000, but which is subject to fluctuations.

The three Maryville banks were the depositories for the last year and they paid interest of 3.8 per cent on the daily balance.

The idemnifying bonds which the bankers furnish will amount to about twice the amount of money deposited with them by the county treasurer.

Bids were opened this noon by the county court from four banks in the county. The Arkoe State Bank of Arkoe was the other bank to submit a bid for the county funds, but it was rejected because it was for two parts of the county balance.

TO DECIDE ON SHIPPING CASE

JUDGE WILL RULE THURSDAY IN McINTYRE SUIT.

M. T. JERSEY TO JAIL

Man Near Hopkins Pleads Guilty on Liquor Charge—Bank Orders Are Made.

A decision will be given Thursday by Judge John M. Dawson in the case of Lawson McIntyre against the Livestock Shipping Association of Burlington Junction. Judge Dawson made the announcement today, stating that he would hold court that day to clean up the unfinished business of the April term of circuit court.

The case involves "money had and received." By agreement of counsel the jury was discharged in this case, after all the testimony had been given, April 20. McIntyre brought suit against the Shipping Association for the recovery of $1,297.57. He is a farmer living between Elmo and Burlington Junction. The Association had sold fifty-eight hogs for him and issued a check for payment in this amount, payable at the Northwestern Bank at Burlington Junction.

By the time the check had made the rounds of the clearing houses, the Northwestern Bank had closed and McIntyre was refused payment.

Judge Dawson said he would hold court in Worth County Friday of this week and in Gentry county on Saturday.

He will go to Princeton May 31 to sit in a murder case, as the judge in the Princeton district, Judge L. B. Wood, has been disqualified.

After allowing an application for an appeal to the Supreme Court of Missouri in the Thomas Ashbrook murder case Saturday afternoon, a criminal case was disposed of, and several cases pertaining to the liquidation of the Bank of Hopkins at Hopkins.

M. T. Jersey, who lives six miles east of Hopkins, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor and was sentenced by Judge Dawson to three months in the county jail. A charge of assault is still pending against Jersey.

The court authorized Frank Barrett, deputy finance commissioner in charge of the Hopkins bank, to make a compromise with Viva G. Langdon and Roy P. Langdon on two notes for $650 and take a loss of $463.60. They gave the bank two notes, one for $480 and another for $1,020 on January 18, 1923, which were secured by a deed of trust on two lots in Sayler's addition to Hopkins. There remained unpaid on the notes $1,053.60.

An application of Mr. Barrett to sell 372 bushels and 50 pounds of corn, on which a storage charge is due, was granted. The order permits the sale of the corn for 65 cents a bushel, or $242.30.

An order was made to sell 160 acres of land in Finney County, Kas. The bank had acquired the land from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wooldridge by a warranty deed, September 18, 1925, and there is no incumbrances on the land. Mr. Barrett said he had an opportunity to sell the land to I. J. Carter of Finney County for $1,100.

The bank was authorized to sell a note, secured by a mortgage given by Cland Hall and Martha A. Hall on 108 acres in Howell County to Tennessee M. A. Hall, curator for Anna Merel Hall, a minor, for $550 and take a loss of $32.

Lydia F. Weber Saturday filed a suit against C. P. Anderson for the collection of a note, alleged to have been made at Burlington Junction May 14, 1925, on which it is claimed Anderson promised to pay $500 in six months.

The judgment of $71 on an account, which it was stated Saturday was awarded to Francis V. Tobin against S. H. Williams, should have been C. W. Rose against Harry Burr. The order had been placed on the wrong line in the circuit court docket.

Return from Cameron.

Miss Roberta Cook, who has been teaching in the Cameron High School this year, returned Saturday to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Cook. Miss Cook has been re-elected for next year and will resume her work in September. Miss Alice McMurry, home economics instructor in the Cameron schools, returned home yesterday. Miss McMurry will attend Columbia University, New York City, this summer.

"KANSAS CITY WET CENTER"

PROHIBITION OFFICER CHARGES A POWERFUL "RING."

WORSE THAN ST. LOUIS

Railroads in League With Liquor Interests or Negligent, Sam S. Haley Declares.

Kansas City, May 23.—Kansas City was branded as the liquor distribution point of the Middle West by Sam S. Haley of St. Louis, federal prohibition administrator, in addressing fifty delegates of the state Anti-Saloon League here today.

"The situation in Kansas City is deplorable. It is even worse than in St. Louis," Haley said. "An alcohol ring exists that is as powerful as any in the United States. Its leaders are so entrenched politically and financially that they need have no fear of curtailment of their illicit activities.

"Rail lines are either in league with the wet interests or at least negligent in scrutinizing carload shipments over their lines," Haley said.

His statements were protested by Mrs. Fannie Taylor of the Kansas City W. C. T. U.

It was Maryville's first victory in three starts. A change in line-up brought improved fielding by the infield and the batting continued on the ineline.

Meanwhile Hopkins and Union Star continued to top the league with three wins and no defeats, giving each a perfect percentage. Stanberry also kept its percentage 1.000 by a second win.

Hopkins defeated Albany by putting across a run in the ninth inning. The battery for Hopkins was Humphrey and Redder and for Albany, Berry, Pratt and Severson.

The score by innings:

Albany	000	000	210	3	7 4

Stanberry went to Bethany and hit its way to a 10 to 4 victory. Stanberry used Boner and Bosch on the mound and Dix behind the bat. Hiatt pitched for Bethany while Vandiver received his offerings. Dix hit the longest home run clout ever made on the Bethany field.
